

My name is Tiro Mthembu and I am a business owner and resident of Regina's Heritage neighbourhood. I would like to make a fiscal conservative pitch to end homelessness in Regina. The city spends large amounts of money on emergency services; However, this money would be better spent on affordable Housing First strategies. Housing First could help uproot issues homeless community members face such as addictions, trauma, and other social economic issues. A Housing First strategy would allow homeless community members to frequent Regina's local businesses. Folks shouldn't have to worry about housing.
